

Flash Fiction Competition

FIRST PRIZE: €75.00

RUNNER-UP: €50.00

RULES

- No entry form is needed. Entry is online, or by post if required.
- The competition is open to writers of any nationality writing in English.
- There is no restriction on theme or style.
- Maximum number of words is 500.
- Entries must not have been published previously.
- The judges' verdict is final. No correspondence will be entered into.
- Entries cannot be altered or substituted once they have been submitted.
- Judging is anonymous. Name and contact details must not appear on the entries. Please use a separate sheet for these details.
- Entry is taken as acceptance of these rules.
- E-mail entries to kanturkarts@gmail.com.
- Post entries to Kanturk Arts Festival, 12 Curragh Court, Kanturk, Co. Cork.
- Competition judge is Mary T. Bradford.
- Kanturk Arts Festival reserves the right to withhold awards in the event of entries not reaching a satisfactory standard.
- Winning entries will be published on the Kanturk Arts Festival website.
- Closing date for entries is Sunday, February 19th 2017.

Mary T. Bradford is a novelist and playwright. Her novel 'My Husband's Sin was published by Tirgearr in 2013 and she's presently working on the sequel. She also writes historical westerns and adult romance. She has had her work published in anthologies, magazines and newspapers both in Ireland and abroad and has had a number of her plays performed.

